Community: UPDATE 'Nearly 200' Houston Area Police Officers Lost Homes to Harvey

'Nearly 200' Houston Area Police Officers Lost Homes to Harvey

In an exclusive interview with Breitbart Texas, Houston Police Chief Art Acevedo said that despite horrible tragedy in the Houston area, police officers in the region are continuing to put their duties first:

"The collective heart of the Houston Police Department (HPD), the Houston Fire Department, all of our municipal co-workers, (and) just the entire first-responder community in this city is second to none, and I am very proud of that," the chief said. Despite more than 200 officers having their own homes damaged or destroyed "They're putting their duty first." The chief praised not only the commissioned officers who wear the dark blue uniform but the entire support staff and dispatchers.

Breitbart Texas spoke with several HPD staff members in the lobby. They expressed they have been living at their posts since the Hurricane began, nearly a week ago now.

"I don't think anyone could have imagined just how significant a challenge this was going to be," the chief explained. "It's historical."

"The (officers) who came in for 12-on, 12-off (shifts), if they were still here Saturday, they didn't get to leave," he expressed. "We made them all stay, it was required. They've been very highly motivated. And, as you can imagine, when you have close to 200 of them that their own homes have been damaged or lost, they haven't abandoned their post."

In Harvey's aftermath, roughly 30 individuals were killed during the hurricane and hundreds of thousands were left with flooded homes and residences.

Many of the lifelong mental and physical problems children have today are directly traceable to what their mothers consumed before her baby was born.

This picture is from a Bovi-Shield Gold ad in a farm magazine, warning farmers to be careful what medication they give their cows so that the unborn calves are not endangered.

Shouldn't we be as concerned about negative effects on our unborn babies as farmers are about their unborn calves?

STAGES OF DEVELOPMENT OF AN UNBORN CHILD

CAUTION:

The first three months of a child's development are the most critical. Many things the mother intakes can have a negative effect on her child for its entire lifetime!

- Day 18 after conception - Heart begins beating
- 5 weeks - Tiny arms and leg buds have formed
- 6 weeks - Face has two eyes
- 7 weeks - Pain sensors appear
- 2 months - Brain begins to form
